

Lane Kasselmann

Co-CEO
Blockchain.com

Lane Kasselmann has served as Co-CEO of Blockchain.com since September 2025 and as President and Chief Business Officer since February 2021.

Mr. Kasselmann is a nationally recognized public affairs expert with deep experience across the political and startup landscape. He is a former Bloomberg pundit, frequent keynote speaker on topics ranging from digital assets to international policy to the tech landscape and former founder with multiple successful exits. Before joining Blockchain.com, Mr. Kasselmann was the co-founder and Global Head of Greenbrier, a global crisis management and strategic advisory firm, and a Partner at The Messina Group, which acquired Greenbrier, advising Fortune 500 companies and global institutions.

Previously, Mr. Kasselmann served as Global Head of Communications & Public Affairs at Uber (as one of its first 100 employees) and Director of Communications and Public Affairs at AT&T, leading corporate strategy, reputation management and regulatory engagement. Earlier in his career Mr. Kasselmann was in public service with a former US President, the Governor of California and the Mayor of San Francisco.

Mr. Kasselmann received his B.A. in Government and Journalism from California State University - Sacramento and his Juris Doctor from Golden Gate University School of Law.

